Dear ANAC family, friends, colleagues, sponsors and special guests,

The ANAC 2023 Conference Committee welcomes you to New Orleans for ANAC 2023 to "Connect and Feed Your Soul." We have been working extremely hard to make sure you have an informative and rewarding experience. We are fortunate that the science and resilience of our nation's healthcare leaders have resulted in the lifting of public health emergencies across the nation, and that we are living and learning from our experiences with COVID-19. Although things are better, we must remain vigilant with mitigation strategies known to be effective such as the wearing of masks, isolating when symptomatic to prevent transmission of the virus and getting vaccinated to prevent severe and sometimes life-threatening illness. Please follow conference guidance and best practices so that we can have a safe and enjoyable time. Please stay home if you are sick.

On a more personal note, I am very excited about the outstanding and ambitious agenda we have planned for you. As an advanced practice registered nurse (APRN) and nursing regulatory professional, I am looking forward to the pre-conference summit and conference sessions which will afford us the opportunity to have some serious dialogue about contemporary issues in nursing that impact us all. Threats to the profession such as the recommendation for APRNs to be regulated by medical boards and criticism and legal action regarding the use of the title "Doctor" among doctorally-prepared nurses in clinical practice have created national attention and tremendous controversy. Additionally, the role of the registered nurse in the outpatient setting and the expansion and maintenance of full practice authority and prescriptive authority for APRNs is crucial to healthcare in all settings overall and especially necessary to end the HIV epidemic. We will have opportunities to engage some of our nation's finest academic, practice and regulatory nurse leaders in discussion about these issues to develop authoritative, evidence-based responses to these threats.

While we must conduct the business affairs and meet the educational objectives of the conference, there is nothing that says we cannot also have fun. On Saturday evening, please join us for La Fete d'Halloween. I cannot wait to see all of the costumes and revelry. Also, please take advantage of our wonderful city by visiting the French Quarter, other historic and culture venues and our fine dining establishments.

Once again, welcome to New Orleans!! If there is anything we can do to make your conference experience more enjoyable, please do not hesitate to let us know. Let's have a wonderful and safe conference. Laissez le bon temps rouler!!

Sincerely,

Dr. Tavell L. Kindall

HIV Prevention Trials Network

Dear conference attendees,

I am delighted to extend a warm welcome to the 2023 ANAC annual conference in New Orleans. I'm so eager to hear from you and our speakers.

This year's theme, "Connect and Feed Your Soul," has a lot of meaning. Connect with new friends and first-time attendees - I encourage you to reach out and talk with someone you don't know. We have first time attendees from across the globe and nursing students from the New Orleans area - greet them! Feed your soul by attending sessions that speak to your values and commitment. Someone told me ANAC is his home, and he gets re-energized and lifted by sharing spaces with people who share his commitment and values. And of course - there is a lot of great food to experience in New Orleans. Here's some inside information: the delicious food at this hotel played into the site choice for ANAC2023. I invite you to sample the treats in the Exhibit Hall and enjoy the meals at the satellite sessions. This year, we are switching up the schedule and hosting the Awards Celebration on Thursday night and closing the conference with the gala on Saturday night. The cost of these events is included in the registration fee, and all are welcome. I hope that you will attend the awards celebration to celebrate your colleagues and party with us on Saturday.

There's a lot to learn, with opportunities to share your experience and perspectives. Our six amazing plenaries, awesome invited speaker sessions and cutting-edge abstract sessions center on the intersections of health and social justice, equitable health policy and implementing innovative, person-centered HIV prevention and treatment. And this year we are screening "New Nickels", a short film that explores the healing journeys of five Black women living with HIV in New Orleans as they find community, self-acceptance and love.

My hope is we will all leave conference a little more hopeful and uplifted about our important roles in HIV prevention and care, addressing social determinants of health and achieving health equity for all.

As you wrap up your conference experience, please remember to complete the evaluation and claim your credit hours for the conference. Up to 18 hours of NCPD/CNE are available and included in the registration fee! Take time to view the posters in the exhibit hall; they are amazing and included!

Last but certainly not least, I want to thank our sponsors and supporters who make the conference possible, the conference committee for their guidance and a BIG shout out to the ANAC staff who have worked so hard on pulling this together. And to you, the attendees, thank you for coming, and I hope it's a great three days for you!

Sincerely,

Carole Treston, RN, MPH, ACRN, FAAN
ANAC Executive Director

Now Accepting Applications

The UCSF School of Nursing is pleased to announce the Next Generation Nurse Scientists Ending the HIV Epidemic training program (Next Gen Nursing EHE), funded by the National Institute of Nursing Research (T32 NR020776), and led by Drs. Carol Dawson-Rose, RN, PhD, FAAN and Glenn-Milo Santos, PhD, MPH. Next Gen Nursing EHE supports four predoctoral and two postdoctoral nurse scholars each year (tuition, stipend, travel support).

Scholars receive guidance from a mentor with expertise in their area of interest; participate in quarterly seminar series on HIV content and research methodology; and participate actively in ongoing HIV-related research on campus. Scholars may also work with a mentor to design and implement independent research projects. Scholars benefit from the resources of the UCSF research-intensive academic medical setting, with extensive opportunities for cross-disciplinary collaboration. Mentor areas of expertise include, for example, biomedical, behavioral, social science, qualitative, and quantitative research; implementation science; intersectionality; trauma-informed care; social and structural determinants of health; sexual and gender minorities; substance use; COVID-19; health disparities; preference-based treatment; stigma; drug-assisted psychotherapies; medication adherence; and PrEP.

General Information

Evaluations

Conference evaluations are important for planning of future conferences. Following the conference, attendees will receive an email that includes instructions for accessing conference evaluations.

Please call Erin Myers at 330.670.0101 for more information about NCPD or evaluations.

Poster Session

Posters represent research, clinical practice, administration and education projects developed by our membership. The posters will be displayed in the exhibit hall at all times, but please check the conference schedule for presentation times.

Exhibits

Exhibit hall and exhibits are located in the Preservation Hall. Please also feel free to ask hotel staff or ANAC staff for assistance.

ANAC welcomes government agencies, community-based organizations, pharmaceutical companies and many others to showcase their exhibits. Please check the conference schedule for day and time, complimentary lunch and snack breaks.

This year, we will hold a series of events in the exhibit hall, including lunch and posters on Thursday and Friday, and a raffle on Saturday. To participate in the raffle, visit and get stickers on your exhibit card from 12 booths during the conference. Drop your card at the registration desk before 11 a.m. on Saturday to be entered in a prize drawing.

ANAC Merchandise Booth

All registrants are encouraged to stop by the ANAC merchandise booth. Open during registration hours.

Satellite Sessions

Satellite sessions are sponsored sessions that provide information about a product or service. Meals are provided and admission is limited and on a first-come, first-served basis.

All of Us Research Program Enrollment

Learn how you can be included in shaping the future of health for you, your family, your community and generations to come by joining the All of Us Research Program. To learn more and begin the enrollment process with Tulane University, stop by the table located by Preservation Hall/exhibit booths each day from 9 a.m. - 3 p.m. After completing the initial enrollment steps, you'll receive a $25 gift card.

You can enroll at the conference regardless of which U.S. state you live in and individuals who started the registration process in the past but have not completed their biospecimen visit can do so on site. You can learn more and get started ahead of time at JoinAllOfUs.org/Tulane.

Social Media

Attendees are welcomed and encouraged to promote the conference and specific sessions on social media using the hashtag #ANAC2023.

Conference App

There is a free downloadable app for conference information and a help desk for the app at the registration area. The app provides information on the schedule, speakers, exhibitors, New Orleans and obtaining NCPD (CNE). It's also a way to communicate with other conference attendees. Download the app on your phone by searching ANAC in the app store.

Trust, Innovation and HIV Care: Navigating HIV Treatment and Prevention Challenges in the Real World

In this workshop, we will examine the intricate relationship between community trust and nurses in HIV care, the complexities around living with HIV and how comprehensive education of patients about HIV treatment and prevention can help them make well-informed decisions regarding their health. Our speakers will also delve into how trust dynamics impacts HIV treatment and prevention challenges by hearing real-world experiences from patients and nurses on the front line. Finally, we will explore strategies to help foster and preserve trust within communities, while discussing how trust can influence the adoption of future innovative strategies in HIV care.

Shaping the future of HIV care through social determinants of health research

Social determinants of health (SDOH), the conditions in which people are born, grow, live, work and age, along with the wider set of forces and systems that shape the conditions of daily life, play a key role in the health of people living with HIV/AIDS. This presentation will explain why it is important to consider SDOH when conducting research and why nurses are uniquely positioned to conduct this research. This presentation will also share a framework for conducting SDOH research and provide specific examples of ways nurse-led research funded by the National Institute of Nursing Research is improving practice, informing policy and advancing health equity for those living with HIV.

New Nickels

New Nickels explores the healing journeys of five Black women in our "Out of the Shadows" program as they emerge from the shadows and find community, self-acceptance and love.

In 2020, the Institute of Women and Ethnic Studies (IWES) was asked by the New Orleans Film Society to create a film focusing on the experiences of Black women living with HIV in the South, through funding from Gilead Sciences. The ensuing film, New Nickels, was created in partnership with a program out of their HIV and STI division entitled Out of the Shadows, which has provided a supportive environment for Black women living with HIV in the South to meet regularly to enhance their resiliency and well-being, develop skills necessary to achieve viral suppression, explore life-enhancing goals and, ultimately, emerge from isolation.

The showing will be followed by a panel discussion.

The HIV Syndemic in Indian Country

The Indian Health Service (IHS) is a federal agency that provides direct healthcare services to roughly 2.6 million American Indian and Alaska Natives (AI/AN). AI/AN people are disproportionately affected by the HIV syndemic, including Hepatitis C and other STIs. This session will provide an overview of the Indigenous HIV/AIDS strategy (also known as the Indigi-HAS) and how it can be adapted to other populations, services provided by IHS, and hear from nurses who have lived and worked within Native communities as they describe the unique challenges and opportunities working as a nurse in Indian Country.

Bridging Healthcare and Social Media

Most people use social media for personal use, but it can and should be used for professional and educational purposes too. Right now, 33% of Gen Zers (ages 9-24) trust TikTok more than their healthcare provider, and 44% go to YouTube before calling their doctor. It is essential that qualified healthcare professionals start bridging the gap and have representation for these impressionable audiences on social media channels. LinkedIn is increasingly becoming a space for professional networking, career and academic opportunities and source of health policy information. Does this mean nurses should jump on the social media train?

Synergy in Inclusive Sexual Health: Triadic Models Empowering LGBTQ+ Youth, Parents, and Nurses

LGBTQ youth's rights to access inclusive and affirming care are under attack in the U.S. Similarly, parents and families with LGBTQ+ adolescents are facing a barrage of policy and health-related challenges. With nurses being well-suited to provide support for parents and adolescents to counter these structural stressors, triadic models of care must be explored and integrated into practice.

Climate Change: Supporting Black Women in the Fight to End the HIV Epidemic

Black women continue to be disproportionately impacted by HIV, with rates of HIV diagnoses and AIDS-related deaths far outpacing women of other ethnic groups. However, they are underrepresented as healthcare providers, organizational leaders and decision-makers. Black women have played a critical, yet often overlooked, role in the fight to end the HIV epidemic. What will it take to cultivate an environment that fosters opportunities and resources to support Black women's leadership? This session will address the necessity of Black women as healthcare providers, influencers of policy and supported contributors in all areas of the HIV continuum.

Politicization of Trans Healthcare: Threats to Democracy and the Hopeful Horizon

This critical talk scrutinizes the political landscape surrounding trans healthcare and individual rights, emphasizing the divergence between harmful policies and evolving societal sentiments. The presentation explores the consequences of the often-partisan, misaligned stance on gender-affirming healthcare, unpacking the potential political ramifications, impact on healthcare and potential backlash. It sheds light on the crucial role of gender-affirming care, underlining its widespread acceptance and its promise for trans individuals amidst current political challenges. This talk will end on a note of optimism, envisioning a hopeful future marked by respect for patient rights and the freedom to make informed healthcare choices and motivating the audience to champion a brighter future facing us.

Implementing Long-Acting ART in Clinical Practice

The advent of the first long-acting antiretroviral (LA-ART) agents and regimen represents a major paradigm shift in HIV management, enabling patients and HCPs to experience the use of ART differently than has been the case for decades with daily oral therapy. This topic will explore the practical steps required to realize the potential of LA-ART on the part of both patients and HCPs, drawing on real-world experiences and insights from implementation studies.

Update on Sexual Transmitted Infections: Advanced and Interesting Cases

Rates of sexually transmitted infections (STIs) in the US continue to increase. Each year over 2.5 million STIs are reported, including over 700,000 cases of gonorrhea and 1.6 million cases of chlamydia. While most providers are easily able to recognize typical symptoms of STIs such as genital discharge, asymptomatic and atypical presentations often go undiagnosed with potential for long term complications. Doxycycline postexposure prophylaxis (DoxyPEP) is a new and contentious option to reduce rates of bacterial STIs. The context of STIs will be explored including counselling, relationship structures, and sexual/gender diversity.

Join us for la fête d'Halloween on the last night of conference. Have some fun with new and old friends while enjoying New Orleans cuisine. Wear your best spooky, funny or punny costume!

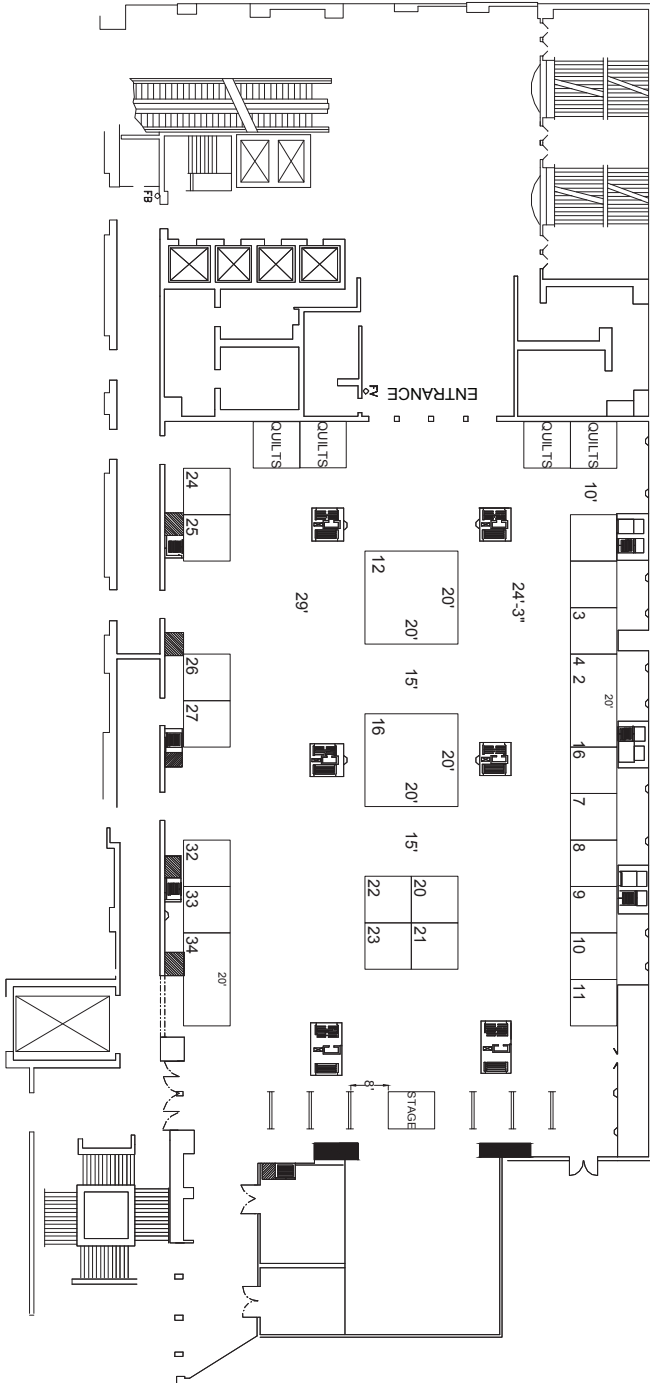

The Dr. Stephaun E. Wallace Memorial Exhibition Ball will take place starting at 8 p.m. It will include a performance illustrating what the House Ball Community is all about. Commonly referred to as the "ballroom scene". It is an important part of LGBTQ culture and HIV prevention and was featured on the series Pose. It's fun and intended to commemorate the life and legacy of Stephaun and to showcase the exceptional talents within the Gulf Coast Ballroom Community. Don't miss it... VOGUE!
