

We recognize that

- Nurse-led care is effective and evidence-based.
- Health policies and legislation have not kept pace with the vital role of nurses.
- Ambitious targets require investments in the nursing workforce, nursing education and research.
- Nurses are under represented on decision making bodies, global HIV task forces, policy and guidelines committees.

Therefore we call for

- Advancing nurse-led care through policies and legislation that support nurses' true role in HIV prevention, care and treatment.
- Resources, budget allocation and staffing structures that reflect the central role of nursing to HIV care and achievement of 90-90-90.
- Health systems that ensure strong interprofessional collaboration.
- Equitable representation of nurses on healthcare and HIV decision making bodies.

Demand
greater investments in nursing

to achieve the goals of 90-90-90*

* 90-90-90 refers to UNAIDS HIV treatment goals to end the AIDS epidemic globally, released in 2014: By 2020, 90% of all people living with HIV (PLWH) will know their HIV status; 90% of all people with diagnosed HIV will receive sustained antiretroviral therapy (ART); and 90% of all people on ART will have viral suppression.

Nurses connect with key populations

Education
Facilitating informed healthcare decision making

Advocacy
Supporting the rights of key populations

Care
Providing nurse-led, person-centered care

Nurses:

Ensure patients' rights to equitable, accessible health care

Provide care for underserved and vulnerable populations

Represent 80% of the global healthcare workforce

Provide evidence-based person-centered HIV care

Provide care along the full HIV care continuum

Are central to achievement of ambitious HIV prevention, care and treatment targets

We call for:

- Policy changes to support nurse-led care
- Greater investments in nursing
- Support for interprofessional collaboration
- Equity in decision making
